Nature's Way of Securing Fertility

There is no mystery about this. It brings into use the elements of soil and air. The effect is both to increase present crop yields and to build up the productiveness of the land.

Natursown, finely ground natural phosphate, contains a high content of fertility-making elements that are made immediately available by proper cultural methods. When Natursown is used the beneficial effects are noticeable for many years thereafter.

The analysis of Natursown shows it to contain 34.42 per cent phosphoric acid. This is released gradually, and with the crops and cultivation which make it available, will be found to permanently build up soil fertility as well as to increase immediate crop yields.
